Founded in 1974, Richmond Area Multi-Services, Inc. (RAMS) is a non-profit agency providing comprehensive, culturally competent services that aim to meet the behavioral health, social, vocational, and educational needs of the diverse San Francisco Area with special focus on the Asian & Pacific Islander American and Russian-speaking communities.

RAMS serves children, youth, families, adults, and seniors while prioritizing those with public health benefits (e.g. Medi-Cal, Medicare, low-income and uninsured).

Services include:

- individual and family therapy,
- case management,
- medication support,
- vocational training & employment services,
- problem gambling counseling, and
- residential care

Programs are located throughout San Francisco, including on-site services at many public schools and pre-schools. In addition, the agency offers psychology/mental health internships as well as youth and adult workforce development programs.
